Washington State Fairs Association

"The Showcase of Agriculture"

Symbol of Service

This Association is a federation for mutual benefit of agricultural fairs and youth agricultural fairs and shows held in the State of Washington and shall be known as the Washington State Fairs Association.

Fairs are one of Washington's greatest tourist attractions. Exhibitor's premiums of $1,600,000 are returned directly to local economies. Based on a 3 - 1 turnover, these dollars generate in excess of five million dollars for local economies.

The Washington State Fairs Association was formed in 1940 for the sole purpose of uniting together to better show the fruits of labor, agriculture, business and industry.

This Association is a nonprofit group of fairs and youth shows. Membership is also available to Service members who furnish entertainment, supplies, commodities and services to fairs.

Fairs -- Washington's Biggest Classroom

Benefits of fairs:

- Fairs create approximately 6000 seasonal jobs in Washington each year.
- Sales tax generated on fairgrounds each year is $22 - 25 million.
- Non-profit organizations (Rotary, Kiwanis, Scouts, church groups, etc.) generate over $7 million a year at fairs. For many, this is their major fundraising event of the year.
- Fairs play a vital role in economic development for small businesses. For many businesses, the fair is the biggest sales event of the year. For others, it is the best way to test new products and gather consumer response.
- Educational and financial opportunities for youth – selling livestock to earn money for college.
- Fairgrounds are used in emergencies such as forest fires, floods, and power outages as to help provide emergency services.
- Fairs provide revenue for restaurants, grocery stores and other local businesses.
- In Okanogan County, not a single youth who participated in the fair has been in the juvenile justice system.
- Over 7.8 million people attend Washington fairs – that's more than the state population.
- Fairs bring communities together, build community pride and provide affordable entertainment for families.
